

NAGC|2021

Annual National
Symposium on Children's Grief
ONLINE • JUNE 16-18

We are excited to welcome you to the 2021 Annual Symposium on Children's Grief. Our event is fully virtual this year, but we are excited to grow and learn with you as a professional community. These three days are full of rich opportunities for education and connection. I encourage you to disconnect from your day job and commit to being fully present with us.

It has been an incredibly difficult time since many of us were last together in Snowbird. Everyone in the alliance has been impacted professionally and personally by the COVID-19 pandemic. However, the connection that has grown in this time has sustained and supported so many. I want to honor and celebrate that. The alliance is stronger than at any other point in its history and continues to grow as we invite others to join us.

In the pages that follow, we have a Q&A document that answers many questions you might have along with the complete schedule. Please do take a moment to locate your link to the attendee dashboard in advance, so you are ready to join us on the 16th!

If you have a technical question before or during the event, you can email support@ce-go.com. You can also email info@childrengrieve.org with any questions. Our staff team will monitor this inbox throughout the event.

Please join me in thanking our sponsor, New York Life Foundation, for their support of this event. Their investment in the symposium puts high-quality professional education in reach of all. We are glad to have them as a partner in this important work.

With thanks to our sponsor:

NEW YORK LIFE
FOUNDATION

With gratitude for the important work you do,

Vicki Jay

Chief Executive Officer